Marta Chilindron, an Argentinean-born, New York-based contemporary artist, is the 2023 winner of the HSM&L and NoMAA's open call for artists to create a summer outdoor installation on the Audubon Terrace

Orange Cube 48 is a folding immersive sculpture made of 66 square panels, measuring 48 x 48 in. (122 x 122 cm.), of translucent 3/8 in. twin-wall polycarbonate, a lightweight material, hinged together like an accordion – that when folded closed, forms a perfect cube. The work transforms a space into a maze that one can enter and walk through, becoming a piece of folding architecture. It is an interactive sculpture that is also an environment, inviting the public to become part of the sculpture – surrounded and contained – as they navigate through it.

The NoMAA Small Grants for Individual Artists program is made possible with the support of NewYork-Presbyterian and the Hispanic Federation. Additional support from LMCC's UMEZ Arts Engagement program.
